

WHOLE CITY PAYS TRIBUTE TO FLAG ON ITS BIRTHDAY

Children and Patriotic Societies Hold Celebrations in All Boroughs.

The skyline of New York in all its five boroughs was gorgeously colored yesterday by thousands of flags that rippled in a southerly breeze. From public places, office buildings and homes the Stars and Stripes of the United States flew proudly. Ceremonies and exercises were held by patriotic societies and public schools.

It was the 143th birthday of the American flag. The services and the display of the flag were in commemoration of this resolution that John Adams introduced in Congress June 14, 1777.

"The flag of the thirteen United States shall be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; the Union, thirteen stars, white on a blue field, representing a new constellation."

With but one change, the same flag the founders of this country adopted more than a century ago bathed in the light yesterday. The thirteen stripes are still a part of our flag, but forty-eight stars are now in the field.

The most picturesque gathering of the day took place in City Hall Park, where 1,000 school children, each bearing a flag, marched from Fraunces's Tavern, where Washington made his farewell address to his officers, to the park, where the Sons of the Revolution had charge of ceremonies.

The Sons of the Revolution marched from their headquarters, Broad and Pearl Streets, to the park, where the Nathan Hale monument was unveiled at its new location and a new flag was raised to the top of the Liberty Pole. Col. Thomas Denney was Grand Marshal, and following him were bands and a battalion of infantry from Governor's Island, a company of marines from the Navy Yard, a battalion of the 107th National Guard infantry, the Veteran Corps of Artillery, the Old Guard Society of the Cincinnati in New York and other organizations. Robert Olyphant, President of the Sons of the Revolution, presided.

Fifteen thousand school children, many of whom are sons and daughters of foreign born parents, participated in the east side's first Flag Day pageant, which was one of the greatest patriotic celebrations ever seen in this section of New York.

The children assembled at their schools at 1 o'clock, dressed in the colors of the flag, and marched to Seward Park, where the exercises were held. The Hebrew Orphan Asylum Band of eighty pieces furnished the music. Floats representing Miss Columbia, Miss Liberty, Freedom and the Spirit of the Argonne were in the procession. Gold star mothers from the crowded east side section of this city and 250 survivors of the Lost Battalion also paraded. The speakers were Mayor Hylan, Senator Bernard Downing and George Ryan.

More than 3,000 persons last night attended the services in the great hall of the College of the City of New York held by New York Lodge, No. 1, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. Murray Hulbert, President of the Board of Aldermen, presided, and Supreme Court Justice Edward J. McGoldrick made the principal address.

LOAN TO JUGO-SLAVIA O. K.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The State Department has advised interested bankers that the United States Government has no objection to their extending a loan of $25,000,000 to Jugoslavia.

This was announced to-day after publication of reports that a loan agreement had been signed by the Belgrade authorities with an American banking syndicate but that the State Department's approval was awaited. The reports referred to loans of $100,000,000 and $50,000,000, but the State Department confirmed its approval of a $25,000,000 loan. What is known as the Blair syndicate negotiated with Belgrade.

COMMUTERS' FLOWERS DISTRIBUTED TO POOR

Collected at Grand Central by Settlement Workers.

A flower-laden booth at the east end of the lower level of the Grand Central Terminal attracted much attention this morning, as did the two pretty young women in charge of it. The flowers came from commuters from Westchester County, plucked from their gardens and were in custody of Miss Louise Sholen and Mrs. Thomas W. Byron, representing the United Neighborhood Houses and the National Plant, Fruit and Flower Guild.

The flowers—daisies, sweet peas, forget-me-nots and others—were sent to settlement houses and distributed to sick and poor in homes and hospitals. The idea originated with Miss Harriet Richter, President of the U. N. H., and distribution will be continued daily.

WEEKS BLAMES DIRECT PRIMARY FOR SOCIAL UNREST

Declares There Is Constant Trend Toward "Complete Social Democracy."

CLEVELAND, O., June 15.—A warning that there is a decided trend in this country away from constitutional government and toward "complete social democracy" was issued here to-day by Secretary of War Weeks in a commencement address at Western Reserve University.

The chief cause of this movement, Weeks asserted, is the direct primary method of choosing candidates for office. Repeal or modification of the primary law was urged by the Secretary.

Other striking points in Weeks's address, which was a comprehensive discussion of our present system of Government and the problems of the present Administration, were:

In the public mind the legislative branch of our National Government probably never has been at a lower ebb than it is to-day.

Despite "comparative plenty and increasing prosperity" there is an unusual amount of unrest in the country to-day.

Much disquietude has resulted from the Prohibition amendment and the failure of Congress to reduce taxes.

We have run riot in the matter of popular elections.

There should be fewer elective and more appointive offices, in the interest of efficient government.

Sharp attacks on reformers. Assertions that Congressmen are heeding the "furor" raised by a minority in their districts more than the national interest.

Although Weeks is one of the political leaders of the Administration, he emphasized that he was speaking only for himself and that he believed the present trend toward complete social democracy would cause a reaction toward a more autocratic form of government. The departures from constitutional government, he said, have lessened the effectiveness of the National Government.

Answering attacks on the Administration for delay in prosecuting alleged war grafters, Weeks said, "we may hold our heads high in the feeling that the extent of graft has been proved to be slight."

"The list of crimes is abnormally large and there is a state of doubt, uncertainty and dissatisfaction."

"This is evidenced particularly in the criticism of public officials of the immediate past and present. There is almost a universal condemnation of Congress at this time, and while I think there are reasons why Congress may be criticized, I am sure that much of the criticism laid at its door is unjustified."

Directing his fire at professional reformers, Weeks asserted that a Legislature should resist most of their theories "to the point of being a reactionary," because most of their proposals would result in greater evils than the existing evil, which it is designed to correct.

PIGGLY WIGGLY

Is the Third Largest Grocery Chain Store System in Volume of Sales in the United States

Piggly Wiggly is a scientific system of merchandising. Light baskets are provided for you to carry your purchases to the checking desk, where the checker packs your goods in a neat bag. You don't have to wait to be waited on.

The Growth and Popularity of the Piggly Wiggly System of help-yourself grocery stores, which were originated at Memphis, Tennessee, in September, 1916, has been more rapid during its first five years than that of any other system of chain stores during the same period of development.

In this comparatively short period of time the Piggly Wiggly system won its place as the third largest grocery chain in volume of sales, with a total business of more than $53,000,000 in 1921. The first quarter of 1922 shows more than $5,000,000 a month and indicates, with the expansion under way, a total business for 1922 of at least $65,000,000.

The Piggly Wiggly system totals 750 stores located in 200 different cities of the South and Middle West, and now Piggly Wiggly has come EAST. The Manhattan Piggly Wiggly Corporation with its subsidiary companies (operating in the Metropolitan District, New Jersey, Western New York and the New England States) plans to open—
